EXCERPT

Now I am by no means a stalker but I had in my possession the main means of communication for a girl that I have been trying to get to know for months with little avail. Thankfully there was no password lock on her cell. Butterflies filled my stomach due to what greeted my eyes when I unlocked the phone. Behind her apps was a photo of her with her hand over her mouth and she spread her fingers to form a V and right in the middle of that V was her elongated tongue and it was pierced. In all my brief encounters with her, be it a greeting or her asking me the price for an item, I had never noticed that she had a tongue piercing. Normally I would assume it was simply a fashion statement but with the gesture she did on the photo it made me wonder if the piercing was in fact a statement of intent or that she was into a particular lifestyle. Whatever the case was, it made my already existent interest grow even further. I quickly got her number from the phone and stored it in my own; minutes later Kay was knocking at the door and she was accompanied by a rather cute girl dressed in a pink alter top, a very short white skirt and white gladiator slippers with laces leading all the way up to her knees. Where physical attributes were concerned she was not as appealing as her acquaintance. She had what I would consider to be a set of plump breasts. However that was all she really had going for her; tall, slender and was not exactly my cup of tea but this did not matter, as she was not the one I had eyes for. O'Neil was very hesitant to let them in, "All that money and you're just gonna give it back, finders keepers but it seems you don't know that." He frustratingly said. However he eventually did. I was greeted with a very thankful smile and then she hugged me, her petite body felt so good against mine. I could feel her chest expanding and contracting with each deep breath she took. A number of thoughts rushed through my mind the short time I was in Kay's sweet embrace and just as I was about to wrap my hands around her, she let go.
