Knowledge Flows in National Systems of Innovation: A Comparative Analysis of Sociotechnical Constituencies in Europe and Latin America (New Horizons in the Economics of Innovation series)

The search for the key to economic growth has proved elusive and contentious. This book uses empirical evidence to propose an integrated approach for achieving strong industrial and technological capabilities to form the basis for regional and national economic development. The work is based both on a theoretical effort to build a new framework for economic growth and on a number of concrete experiences from a number of countries in Europe and Latin America.
